MURDER.

An Old Man found Murdered in a Dwelling at Tenth and Elisworth Streets,

This morning the dead body of Mr. Berkinshaw, aged fifty-five years, was found lying in the third story of a building at Tenth and Ellsworth streets, covered with blood. The structure is three stories in height, and is occupied on the first floor as a tavern, while the upper portion has been for some time tenantless, except by the deceased, who slept there at nights, he having no home or friends in this city. The news of finding the body this morning soon spread around the neighborhood and created the greatest amount of excitement. It was known that Berkinshaw was a worthless sort of a character, with no money, and the wonder was why any one should be induced to kill him.

It has been his habit to sleep in this building for some time, and not having been seen during the past few days going in or out, caused one of the neighbors to go into the lavern and laquire about him. John Stuart, who was the bartender, replied that he had not seen him for several days, and requested the gentleman to go up stairs and see if he had not died.

The gentleman accordingly went to the third floor, and there discovered his inanimate

The gentleman accordingly went to the third floor, and there discovered his inanimate form lying at the top of the stairs which led to an entry between two rosms. His head presented the appearance of having been badly beaten, and his body was one mass of clotted blood and vermin. There were no stain of blood on the floor, except at his feet, where a small pool of congulated blood was seen. The hat of the deceased was found lying in the front room, which had been used as his sleeping apartment.

front room, which had been used as his steeping apartment.

Nothing whatever is known of the occurrence which caused his death, but it is believed that he had been murdered outside of the building, and then laid where he was discovered. The indications so far show that he has been dead two or three days. Dr. Shapleigh will make a post mortem examination of the body this afternoon, and Coroner Daniels will hold the inquest to morrow morning.

John Stuart, the man above spoken of, has been taken into custody, and the police are engaged in endeavoring to unravel the mystery which at this time surrounds the case.

OSPIDARY-DR. RUPUS BICKNELL .- Rufus West Philadelphia, on the night of the Sth instent, was for more than a quarter of a century one of the most prominent and best-knows citizens of that portion of Philadelphia lying west of the Schuylkill. He was an eminently wind and faithful physician and a most thorough wester in all the walks of his busy life. He leaves a remarkably extensive circle of friends to meann his loss.

THE IREH REPUBLICANS .- One of the most enthusiastic meetings witnessed during the campaign was the one held by the Irish Republicans about two weeks since, in Concert Hall. To morrow night these same loyal Irishmen will again meet at the same place, and will be addressed by Major-General N. P. Banks, of Massachusetts, Hon, A. G. Curtiu, David Bell, the eloquent editor of the Irish Republic, John M. Moriarly, Hon, Patrick Corbett, of Syracuse, and Major-General J. T. Owen.

GENERAL KING AT CONCERT HALL .- To-night our Republican friends will have the opportu-zity of hearing the elequent orator, General King, who is the opponent of Governor Swann for Congress in the Third District of Maryland. General King is a speaker of good repute, and those who attend the meeting will hear an able review of the present political condition of the PHENOMENA.

The Recent Earthquakes in the West

The earthquakes in California bring home to the dwellers in the Atlantic States, with fearful distinctness, the terrible disasters in Peru and Ecuador. The relations between the Pacific and Atlantic States are so personal and inti-mate that a painful anxiety and solicitude is generally feit respecting the fate of California. That State presents numerous volcanic traces that indicate the possibility, if not probability, of earthquakes. Happily, the shocks in Cali-fornia appear to have seen slight, although they naturally inspired a wide spread terror.

They were no doubt occasioned by the same disturcing influences that produced such tearful results in South America in August. This is in accordance with the general law of earthquases which travel from south to north. But in Call-forn: a the volcanic forces seem to have expended their strength, and resulted in comparatively slight undulations. The observations on these phenomena warrant the conclusion that the slight undulations. The observations on these phenomena warrant the conclusion that the Californians have already experienced the worst effects from the earth's vibratory motion, and that no further injuries are likely to occur.

The recent earthquakes appear to have been diffused over a wide extent of territory. In Peshawur, in British India, an earthquake occurred on the 20 nof August, seven days after the events in South America. The strougest buildings were shattered, but although the shocks were very violent, no lives were lost.

In the Sandwich Islands, from the 2d to the 9th of August, numerous slight shocks of ear bquake were observed. On the 8th a terrible rain storm, the usual attendant of erthquakes, occurred at Hawaii, and a few days afterwards the atmosphere became suitry and oppressive, as is frequently the case both before and after telluric disturbances. In Sydney, Australia, on the 15th of August, there was an extraordinary tidal disturbance for several days, that extended along the entire coast. The water ebbed and flowed with great violence, and for several days the tides were unusually high.

In Chili, since the earthquakes of the 13th of August, the almosphere has exhibited signs of sultriness and oppression that occasioned no slight alarm among the inhabitants, who connect these conditions with volcanic eruptions, scientific observations have not confirmed this view. Earthquakes have occurred during heat and cold; in storm and calm; but the South scientific observations have not confirmed this view. Earthquakes have occurred during heat and cold; in storm and calm; but the South American view, like most popular impressions, seems to be based upon some foundation of facts. In nearly all the recent disturbances from the shock in India on the 20th of August. from the shock in India on the 20th of August, down to the recent disturbances in California, including the disasters in South America, there were the same conditions of sultriness and oppression in the air. The California papers by the last steamer all notice the warm, still air, and light vapor, which were attributed to fires in the woods in remote regions. But, in the light of recent events, it may be concluded that these atmospheric peculiarities were connected with volcanic agencies.

A review of the facts that have been so far a review of the lacts that have been so far gathered relative to the recent earthquakes, indicates that they were all probably occasioned by the same internal action, and were transmitted from the interior of the earth in place of extending over its crust in vibrating motions, as is usually the case. Further information were these and other notes will be locked.

tions, as is usually the case. Further information upon these and other points will be looked for with peculiar interest by scientific persons, as well as by the general public.

The terror inspired by the comparatively light shocks of earthquakes in California of which we have news by telegraph, is founded upon a deeply-rooted principle in human nature. These phenomena reverse all our established ideas of the material universe. We are accustomed to the changes of wind and water, but the earth is always associated with ideas of stability and the ordinary succession of events founded upon known natural laws. An earthquake reverses in a moment all preconceived quake reverses in a moment all preconceived notions of the material universe, and induces an instinctive terror to which all other emoan instinctive terror to which all other emo-tions and feelings are as nothing. Nor is this terror confined to man. It is also shared by the animal creation. During an earthquake the fright of beasts is described as most pitta-ble. In India crocodites and reptiles have been known to forsake the banks of rivers, and has-ten to the forests, led by a mysterious instinct.

JUDGE WITTIAMO.

His Installation as a Member of the Supreme Court. The Pittsburg Disputch of yesterday morning. ecords the installation of Judge Williams, as records the installation of Judge Williams, as follows:—

As will be seen in our Court reports, his Honor Judge Henry W. Williams, late of the District Court of this county, was yesterday sworn in as a member of the Supreme Court of this Sate, vice Judge Wm. Strong, resigned. The Court opened at ten o'clock, with Chief Justice Thompson, Associate Judges Read, Agnew, and Sharswood on the Bench. Justice Read then proceeded to read the opinious, during which Judge Williams entered and took a seat near the bench, beside his late associate, Judge Hampton. Chief Justice Thompson left his seat, and, after a moment's conversation with Judge Williams, the latter handed his commission to the Prothonotary, who endorsed thereon the oath of office, with date, etc. Meantime Judge Sharswood left his seat, and approaching Judge Williams extended a cordial greating to the latter gentleman. All being in readiness, the appointee was called to the vacant seat on the bench, and, by direction of the Chief Justice, the Prothonotary read the commission which gives Judge Williams the seat until the first Monday of December, 1869. The commission was then handed to the Chief Justice, who, with the other members of the court, as well as those in attendance, arose, Justice Thompson then administered the oath to Judge Williams she not had the court, as member of the court, as incorrect on the back of the commission; afterwards both signed it. Judge Williams then took his seat as a member of the court, occupying one end of the bench, while his late opponent, Judge Sharswood, Judge Williams then took his seat as a member of the ceurt, occupying one end of the bench, while his late opponent, Judge Sharswood, occupied the other end. Judge Hampton was the first to congratulate the new Justice, his late associate, after which Judge Williams received the congratulations of the members of the bar and other friends. The Judge (Williams) is the right man in the right place, and we have no doubt at all his course on the Supreme Bench will give the most unlimited satisfaction.

The New York Money Market.

The New York Money Market.

From the Herald.

Yesterday was a day of continued excitement in Wall street, and on the Stock Exchange there was a very leverish market, particularly for railway shares, while the monetary siringeacy experienced was greater than yesterday, the supply of loanable funds being inadequate to the demand even at seven percent, in currency, with a commission of a hall per cent, for the remander of the week added. It is reported that two millions more in greenbacks were withdrawn from the banks this afternoon in addition to $200,000 which were self South by a single institution, and this is but the beginning of the drain towards that section to move the conton crop, simultaneously with which the demand on the seconal of the prk crop will increase the already existing stringency of the Western money markets, and stimulate temitteness of currency from this centre. Progress of the Charter Election-The Vacillating Swann.

FROM BALTIMORE.

Special Despatch to The Evening Telegraph. BALTIMORE, Oct. 28.

The Charter Election for members of the first branch of the City Council is now going on quietly. The vote will be very small, except in four wards, where independent Republicans are running, and some other wards independent Democrats. The vote will be not the slightest test of the vote for Grant and Colfax.

It is now currently reported that Governor Swann is trying to crawl back to the Republican party, and place himself, saddled and bridled, martingaled and spurred, on the Grant horse. The Seymour donkey is too stubborn and slow.

ASSASSINATION.

Particulars of the Murder of Congress-man Hinds—His Body at Little Rock. Sr. Louis, Oct. 28-A special despatch from Little Rock, Arkansas, to the Democrat says:--The body of Hon. J. Hinds, who was assassinated on Oct. 22, arrived there yesterday, and was escorted to the State House, where it lay in state for several hours, and was visited by a large number of people.

At 3 P. M. the remains were taken to the depot, to be forwarded to Salem, New York. The procession was very long, consisting of military, State. Federal, county, and city officers, fire companies, colored schools, and citizens generally; and all business houses were closed.

Mesars. Hinds and Brooks were shot by George A. Clark, Secretary of the Democratic Committee, who was drunk at the time. This is corroborated by a despatch from Memphis, which further states that Clark was armed with a double-barrelled shot gun, joined Brooks and Hinds a short distance from Virgin Bay, and announced his purpose to kill them both, and immediately fired and wounded Brooks.

Mr. Hinds then attempted to escape, but was shot in the back. Clark was subsequently arrested and lodged in jail. He is said to have borne the reputation of a peaceable citizen, but at the time of the shooting was in a condition bordering on delirium tremens.
